Summary

From a young age the desire of portraying the evolution of different species has been something that capture my attention. With time, my impulse to paint, gradually evolved from street art to paper , wood , glass and canvas .I related closely to the evolutive process as I myself was evolving as an artist. It always triggered in me the joy to represent the way I feel an intense connection with nature where they are no preconditions colors or shapes.

The observation of the wildlife impeles in me a compulsive passion to paint environmental issues.

The themes that have being present in my work extend from primates to the subaquatic mysterious and almost alien lifeforms.
